POETRY.

For the Commercial.

On the Death of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, late President of the United States.

America: thy chosen chief is dead.

Death gluts himself within thy proudest halls,

A nation's heart in one hath sorely bled,

The sable garb of mourning decks thy walls.

Weep, oh, weep; a glorious martyr falls,

Just as his sun is bursting into day.

This horrid deed a nation's joy appals,

Ere yet her victors' shouts had died away,

While the bright dawn of peace sent forth its cheering ray.

America: a stain is on thy brow,

More than of thousands slaughtered on the field.

From such dark deeds what good can ever flow?

Unmeasured joy to sorrow now must yield;

Let hearts be dumb, and human lips be sealed,

We bow submissive to this heavy stroke;

What hidden mysteries there are concealed

We may not know; as if some angel spoke

We hear the awful news, and feel our heart-strings broke.

Shall men of vulgar craft and groveling mind

In safety live for more than mortal years?

Shall those whose lives are burdens to mankind

Defy death's shaft and triumph o'er his fears

While he whose hand can wipe a nation's tears,

Bind up her wounds and bid her sorrows end,

Is rudely torn from all our hope endears,

The victim of a base and brutal fiend,

Too "curst to die, too vile for even gods to rend?"

And is there found a man who does not weep

When the assassin whets his ghastly knife?

Is there in all this land a soul so deep

In guilt and sin, that would not mourn a life

So stricken down? To dare a manly strife

Hath something noble in the meanest cause?

But him whose breast with every crime is rife

Ignoble wretch, that tramples on all laws,

Eternal axes score—heap curses without pause!

On this great wrong let every voice be heard

For moral power the day hath ample need:

Let all the fire of truth enshrine each word.

Ye men of every party, faith and creed,

Spurn imputation of so foul a deed;

Let the dark core concentrate all on one,

Immortal minion of his serpent breed!

Blush not, America, though nobly done,

'Tis but the spot relieves the luster of thy sun.

MR. LINCOLN'S FAVORITE POEM.

This following poem was a particular favorite with Mr. Lincoln, and which he was accustomed occasionally to repeat.

The events of the last few weeks give it a peculiar interest. Mr. F. B. Carpenter, the artist, writes to the Evening Post that while engaged in painting his picture at the White House, last year, he was alone one evening with the President in his room when he said:

"There is a poem which has been a great favorite with me for years, which was first shown to me when a young man, by a friend, and which I afterwards saw and out from a newspaper and learned by heart. I would," he continued, give a great deal to know who wrote it, but have never been able to ascertain."

He then repeated the poem, and on a subsequent occasion Mr. Carpenter wrote it

ANDREW JOHNSON.

The hour of high noon on Saturday had not struck ere a successor had assumed Mr. Lincoln's prerogatives, and grasped the reins which fell from his nervous hand. We are saved from the sad fate of revolutionary drifting. We have a leader. The Northwestern performed one of its saddest duties when it censured the Vice President for his course at the inauguration. We have carefully considered the matter since, have conversed with his personal friends who were on the ground; have given due consideration to all extenuating facts—and there were many—but after all, we cannot recall our words.

But we do not believe they will need to be repeated. Mr. Johnson has been a true man to his country. In this hour of peril, with his State swinging into secession, he stood as a rock. He bearded the whole band of conspirators. He shook his clenched hand in the face of Davis, and told him if he had the power he would hang him as high as Haman. He has from the outset seen that slavery must die.

And now with a chastened soul he comes to the functions of the Presidency. We expect him to do well. He has the brain and the courage. The madmen who slew Lincoln destroyed a man of cool blood for one whose veins have been maddened by personal and family wrongs endured from the rebellion. They slew one eminently pacific to come under one who hates treason and traitors with all the intense hatred of a fiery nature.

We shall see. They will also see. We do not believe he will be blood thirsty, but if men are convicted of treason his pardon will never reach them. The American people now demand that the leaders of the rebellion die, and that their Northern associates shall bear them company to the shades, and Mr. Johnson is no man to balk them of their demand. And it may be that He who sees the end from the beginning permitted the blow to fall, seeing the land needed a hand gauntleted in steel for this crisis. Such a hand is that of Andrew Johnson, whom late the dogs of slavery hounded—now they are to receive the law at his mouth.

He is our President. Let every Christian pray God's blessing upon him. Pray that he may be kept from falling; pray that he may be Divinely guided through the perils which beset him—pray that his life may be spared. The public breathes easier since learning that he proposes to continue in his cabinet, the well tried gentlemen now composing it. We trust the accomplished Secretary of State Mr. Seward, may recover and resume the performance of his high functions.—North-Western Christian Advocate.

SUCCESS OF THE 7-30 LOAN.

Our readers will notice that subscriptions to the popular 7-30 Loan are still continued in the most liberal manner. To the old World the success of these People's Loans is one of the wonders of a Republic. The Government does not seek to borrow in foreign markets; it offers no premiums to bankers, but appeals directly to the people, and with what success is sufficiently shown by the fact that during forty three days they subscribed and paid the cash down for one hundred and sixty one million dollars of the 7-30 Loan. There can be no stronger evidence of public confidence in Government securities.—While nearly all other stocks have gone down from twenty to fifty, and even a greater percent within a few weeks, all forms of U. S. bonds and stocks have remained firm except the slightest fluctuations that are incident to all rapid changes in the money market.—Our readers will remember that the subscribers to the 7-30 Loan receive semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three tenths per cent. per annum in currency, and at the end of three years in currency, and they will have the option of receiving payment in full, or converting their notes into a 5-20 six per cent. gold interest bond. The late great decline in the premium on gold makes these notes more desirable than ever as an investment, and it should not be forgotten that their exemption from state or municipal taxation adds largely to their value. There is no interruption in the receipt of subscriptions or the delivery of the notes. All banks, bankers, and others acting as Loan Agents, will pay subscribers the interest in advance from the day of subscription until June 15th.

In his very eloquent speech in Faneuil Hall while the citizens of Boston had flocked to rejoice over the tidings of the fall of Richmond, Fred. Douglass said:

What I want, now that the black men are citizens in law, is that they shall be made fully and entirely all over this land, citizens in peace. I believe it is not your intention in your extreme charity, now that Jefferson Davis has shown you his coat tails and the rebels are marching out to find the last ditch to take to your bosom these men, who with broad blades and bloody hands have been seeking the life of this nation and invest them with the right to vote, [voices "never!"] and divest the negro of the right to uphold that flag by his vote. You will not go down to the South and say: "We will enfranchise our enemies and disfranchise our friends [cries of "never!"] and applause.] we will protect our enemies and forget our friends. I hold that the American people, in calling upon the black men to take part with them in this great struggle, have bound themselves by every consideration of honor to protect them from the consequences of their espousal of their cause. [Hear, hear, "that's so," and applause.] They are bound to do it. And remember that hereafter, at the South the negro will be looked upon with a fiercer and intenser hate than ever before. Every one of those who have been interested in the rebellion will look upon the negro as one of the causes of the failure of that rebellion.

Cancers:

They have had an extensive practice, and wonderful success in the treatment of Cancers, which they cure without cutting them out, or using the knife. Let those who have tumors, or Swellings, or a red spot, lose no time in having it attended to, as a timely treatment may save them from the horrors, sufferings and death of an open Cancer.

ATARRH CURED

They are treating Catarrh on a new system, which is a sure cure for this disease. Experience has proved that this disease cannot be cured by local treatment alone, and the many advertised cures for Catarrh, all of which are local remedies, give relief only while the patient is using them and never cure. Understanding the disease, we know it cannot be cured by local treatment alone, therefore we also prescribe a constitutional remedy; and by the combined local and constitutional treatment we are enabled to remove the causes of Catarrh and thereby effect

A PERMANENT CURE.

Their consultations for years have averaged from five to seven thousand a year, which gives them an experience unsurpassed by any, and equalled only by a few.

Remember, they do not promise to cure all stages of disease. While all diseases are curable, if taken in season, all stages are not. Your case may be curable this week, not next—to-day, not to-morrow. Hence the danger of delay.

No Case will be received where there are any Doubts of Cure or Relief.

Our Terms are Cash; hence the money must be sent with all orders for medicine. It costs from five to fifteen dollars per month to doctor with us, which includes medicines.

The poor will be favored.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Patients must write their name, State, and Post Office address plainly. All letters requiring an answer must contain a letter stamp, and be addressed to

DR. KNAPP & SON,

Drawer 6483, Chicago Ill.

Any of the above diseases can be treated successfully by the patients describing their case in a letter, when they cannot see us.

Dr. Knapp, who will visit Ypsilanti regularly in the future, can be consulted at the Follett House, Friday, February 17th, Friday, April 14th, and Friday, June 16th.
